Diana Sturges wins SoTL Award from Board of Regents

August 29, 2014

School of Health & Kinesiology professor Diana Sturges has won this year's award of excellence in Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL) from the University System of Georgia Board of Regents. The prestigious honor is awarded to only two professors within the University System of Georgia annually.

Dr. Sturges was awarded based on the strength of her teaching and scholarship portfolio which was reviewed "by a panel of faculty and administrators from across the University System," says her award letter. Dr. Sturges' award letter also notes the "extent to which [she] shared [her] research with the larger academic community nationally and internationally" as a contributing factor in her award. The panel voted unanimously to award Dr. Sturges.

Dr. Sturges will be formally recognized at the annual Board of Regents Gala at the College Football Hall of Fame in Atlanta in March of 2015.
